The Halle Institute for Economic Research (IWH), member of the Leibniz Association, is offering a

Institut für Wirtschaftsforschung Halle

PhD Position (Doctoral Researcher)

supporting the IWH Research Group "Real and Financial Innovation" (Junior Professor Dr Felix Noth), starting November 1, 2014. The contract will initially be limited to two years, but an extension is intended.

Your motivation:

You have successfully completed your studies in economics with excellent results. Having a strong interest in challenging empirical research, you want to conduct own research in the field of banking markets and financial systems, which you want to further develop in the course of your dissertation project.

Your profile:

You have a very good economic education and have good knowledge of financial systems and banking markets. You are experienced in applying econometric and empirical methods and have already carried out own analyses in the course of your bachelor or master thesis. Besides, you are able to present a complex issue in a way that is concise and reader-orientated – both in speech and writing. You work in a structured and self-motivated manner. Organisational and social skills and an orientation on project and team work make your profile complete.

Your responsibilities:

You will conduct own research on the effects of banks on the real sector. A doctoral thesis on the topic shall be completed. The participation in the IWH Doctoral Programme in Economics \(IWH-DPE\) as well as the Central-German Doctoral Program Economics \(CGDE\), which is organised in close cooperation with neighbouring universities, is obligatory, while previous studies will be acknowledged. In the context of existing agreements with neighbouring universities, there is the possibility to gain teaching experience.

Further information:

You will be given the opportunity to undertake challenging research tasks. You will find a well-equipped research infrastructure as well as an open-minded and cooperative working environment.

The IWH considers itself as a family-friendly employer that guarantees equal opportunities for women and men and hereby strongly encourages women to apply for this position. Remuneration and benefits conform to the German public sector salary scheme (pay group 13 Tarifvertrag der Länder, TV-L).

Candidates with disabilities and their peers are encouraged to indicate a severe disability in their application.

Your resume and CV with evidence of all qualifications should be addressed with indication 2014-08 by July 31, 2014 (electronically) to jobs@iwh-halle.de.
